Inasmuch as the stewards take no cognissance of betting there could have been no harm from the standpoint of the Jockey Club in having the finish corrected. Those who bet on Flyback to show did not collect. They might send personal bills to Judge Mc-Dowell.

The second race was rather an easy win for Funnyeide, who made all the running and beat Clear the Arena a couple of lengths. Orthodox, a hot favorite in the third, had no trouble libeating Misseola and Orthodox. In the fourth Ocean Tide scored another victory, heating Ascension in a hot finish. The track was a bit slow. The attendance was god, Judges Wouldn't Rectify Error.

Judgea Wouldn't Rectify Error.

Plyback and Niblick were strong favorities in the first race, closing at acarly even money. Coy Maid was the second choice. Flyback and Esnitcheon were the pacemakers, followed, by Coy Maid and Juvenaga. Pley held this order to the last sixteenth, where Coy Maid and Flyback rew away together. In a hot drive flyback was a length and a half in front of Estitcheon. The judges made the error of placing Niblick second instead of Plyback. The error was discovered in plenty of time, but the judges refused to rectify it. In the show books in the ring Flyback was 6 to 5 and those who set on this horse to be third had no thoice.

Funnyaide All the Way. Funnyside went to the front soon af-ier the start and making all the run-ing won easily by two lengths from Clear the Arena, who closed strong and beat Princess Atheing a head for the place. St. Homa, the favorite, was off very badly.

Orthodox with Ease.

Orthodox was a hot favorite in the ibird rice. He justified the confidence reposed in him by racing to the front and staying there all the way, winning as he pleased by two lengths from Min-tola, who was second all the way, casely beating War Whoop for the piace.

While the detectives were taking the woman down to Police Yeadquarters she broke away from them at Twenty-third Rein and Becker gave chase, followed by a great crowd of shoppers and she was caught only after a hard struggle.

In the Jefferson Market Polict Court she was held in $1,000 bail for examination by Magistrate Barlow.

Later Mr. Woodson called it "an informal talk." He declined to talk about the conference. Mr. Sheehan was asked what he had to say regarding Mr. Bryan's 16.-Following are the results of the statements of reorganization. He refused to say anything, and finally replied to all questions: "I have nothing to say. I have said nothing for a year and will not too much conservatism. Mr. Taggart smiled, but made no answer. NOT ENOUGH DEMOCRATS, SAYS TAGGART.

"Can you account in any way?" he was again asked.

"Yes, in this way. There were not enough Democrats."

"Are you going to reorganize the party?" "There is no need of reorganizing. What we need is more Democrata." "How about the policy as pursued by the national committeemen in this

Joseph Green, Overcome by the Act of His Wife After He Had Upbraided Her, Attempts to End His Life and Lays Many Hours Beside Corpse.

TELLS STORY IN FEEBLE WHISPERS AT HOSPITAL.

Young Couple Had Only Been Married for Three Months-Quarrelled Because She Permitted a Man to Walk Home with Her from a Friend's House.

Mrs. Catherine Green, pretty, young bride of three months, shot Rumored at Aqueduct To-Day herself through the heart at midnight last night in her apartment on the that the Race Course by the top floor of the flat house at No. 201 Freeman street, Williamsburg, Sea Is to Become Great after a trifling quarrel with 1.2r husband over her permitting a young man to escort her home from a .riend's house last night.

Shocked by his wife's t, and remorseful for he part he had played in the matter, the husband, Joseph Green, a bartender for James Clark, who keeps a saloon at Eagle street and Manhattan avenue, lake TO RACE TRACK GROUNDS, his wife's body out on a bed and then taking the pistol from her hand shot himself behind the right ear. He fell on the bed alongside his? dead wife and was not discovered until 2 P. M. this afternoon, fourteen nours after the double shooting occurred.

In ail that time not one of the numerous people living in the house knew of the tragedy so close to them. When Green was found he had sunk ve low, but was able to whisper out a statement of what had occurred. He was taken to St. Catherine's Hospital, where it is said there is little hope of I

Green is thirty years old and his wife was twenty-three. She was a Williamsburg girl, and she and Green had been sweethearts for a long th Green saved his money for years to furnish a little home for himself and his sweetheart, and three months ago they were married. They went to he keeping at once, and until the fatal quarrel of last night no cross words had passed between them.

Green was kept until 8 o'clock at his place of business last night. When he got home there was a little note for him there from his wife, saving that she had gone out to call on some friends, but would be home early. Green was tired and disposed to be annoyed by his wfe's absence, but went in a

At 10 o'clock Mrs. Green came home, escorted by a young man whose first name is "Larry," but whose last name no one has been able to find out yet. "Larry" left her at the door, and what occurred after that was told to an Evening World reporter by Green as he lay on a bed in St. Catherine's Hospital this afternoon. He said:

"Katle came home with 'Larry' and I told her that she oughtn't to alow young men to bring her home like that, as there were lots of people around waiting to twist innocent things into evil, and that she would be talked about. I wasn't cross with her at all, but I did tell her that she had been indiscreet and that she ought to be more careful of herself and her good name. I didn't accuse Katle of anything wrong, but only told her she had been very foolish. "The poor girl took the thing very much to heart and the team came in her eyes. She went to the front room and I stayed in the kitchen reading

At midnight she came out and she had a revolver in her hand. "'Joe,' she said, 'you've broken my heart talking to me like you have and I don't want to live any more'

"Before I realized what she was up to she had put the pistol to her heart and pulico the crigger. The bullet went through her heart and she fell dead at my feet. I was stunned for awhile by it, but thinking she might not be dead I picked her up and took her up to the front reem and put her on the hed. I was going to go out and get a doctor, but first I felt her heart to see if she was alive. It had stopped beating and then I #### knew that she was dead. THEN HESHOT HIMSELF.

"Well, I must have been crazy, but it seemed to me that I was to blame for it all and that I killed her. She still had the pistol in her hand, and when I looked at it I thought I might as well die too. So I took it from her and shot myself beamd the right ear. I tried to put the bullet through my brain and I am sorry that I didn't succeed, as life is not worth living without

"I fell on the bed alongside Katie and I lay there for a long time. Sometimes I knew where I was and what had happened and other trees I was unconscious. Once I tried to get off the bed but I was too weak to move. Then I made up my mind that if I moved some one would come and save me, and I didn't want to be saved. So I just lay there until a policeman kicked our door open and they brought me here."

The discovery of the tragedy was made by Edward Devoe, of No. 99 Huron street, Williamsburg. Mr. Clark, Green's employer, waited until noon for his bartender to show up. When he hadn't put in an appearance at noon he sent Devoe to the Freeman street house to see what was the Devoe went to the flat and rang the bell several times. There was no response. Then Devoe went to several of the neighbors and asked if there had seen eithe: Mr. or Mrs. Green. None of them had. The last anytody had seen of them was last night. Devoe became alarmed and feared to enter the flat alone. He went out on the street and found Patrolman Langdon, to whom he told the story. He said he was sure the Greens were in their flat and was afraid they had been overcome with gas.

Devoe and Langdon went to the top flat and forced the door open. They went to the front bedroom, and there found the couple. At that time Green was too feeble to say anything at all. An ambulance was hastily summoned. The surgeon said that Mrs. Green had been dead for fourteen Time—1.04.
